

An Introduction to Looping Theory. By James Fuller

Systems exist that could bring sustainable peace to Earth. Most things work in loops, cycles, circulation, revolutions, so it's as simple as creating a global circulation of peaceful education. Right?

The following article is a proposition to the reader to consider a system that will supersede the current systems of the world. Being a woke person is exhausting in the current paradigm and this exhaustion makes it impossible to function to a one's potential, always preoccupied learning, researching investigating and trying to understand what is happening, and why. The purpose of a new system is to offer a trusted foundation for all people to live with peace of mind, which means avoiding the antics of the current governing powers, eradicating the need for conspiracy theories, shifting away from the corruption of big companies and oppressive institutions.

This article explores the idea of connecting every willing and able human being around the world in order to move in synchronicity and make decisions together. As ideological as this may sound the technology exists to make this happen now.

The goal is to homogenize with all the best elements of the current systems until the new community outgrows the current systems.

Let us explore how systems function: As we all know blood is in circulation, breathing is in circulation, money is in circulation, the planets are in circulation, matter is in circulation, karma is in circulation – everything about humans and life is in a type of circulation.

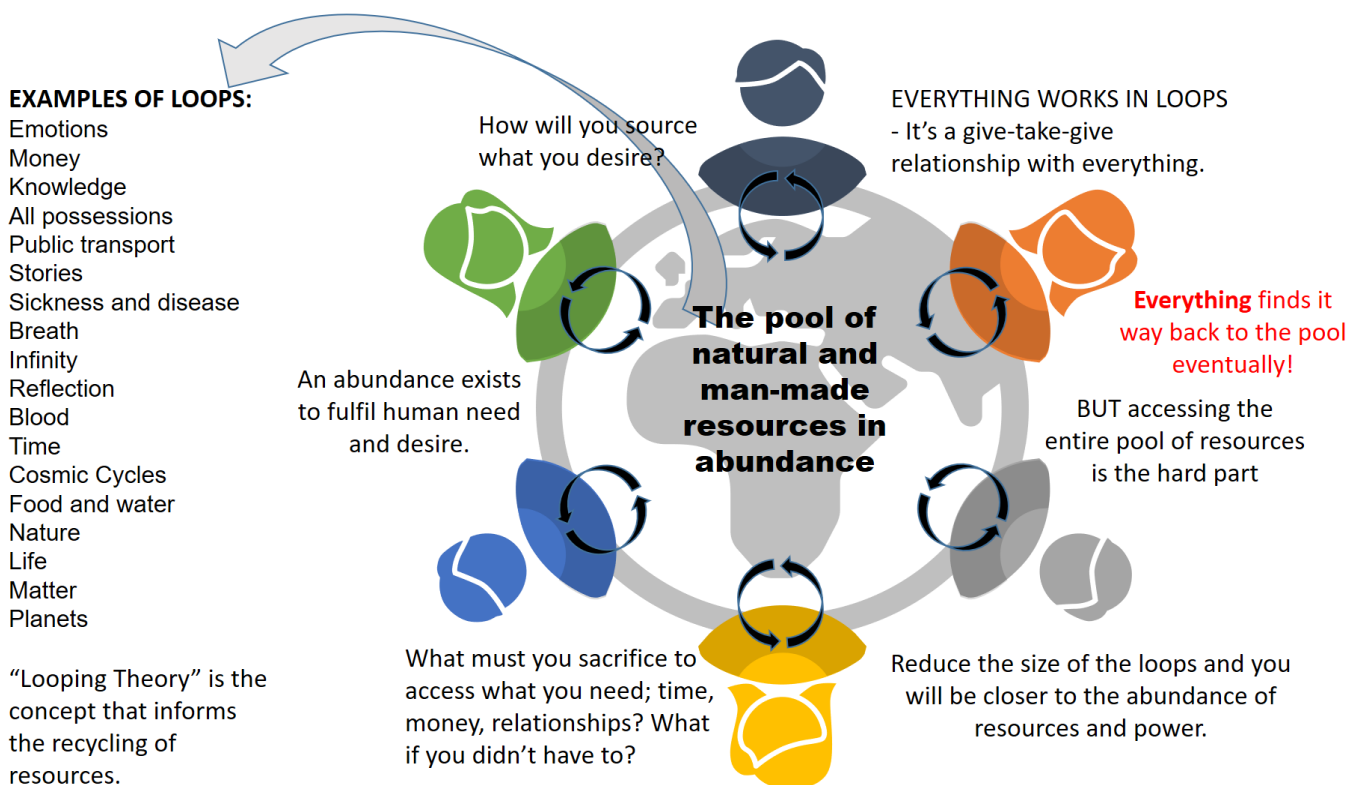

The consensus is growing that this circulation can be expressed with something called the “torus of revolution” – and explains how nature turns energy into matter.

The looping model applies to individuals and groups on macro and micro levels. All things function in loops. This is the reason that history tends to repeat itself, water functions in a cycle, life is called a circle and students become the teacher. Loops explain the sustainable nature of things.

Empowerment can be gained when this knowledge is applied in a collective manner i.e. circulating resources within a community and fulfilling the needs of the locals prior to expanding. When people are working together and behaving in synchronicity with nature of everything then they find a flow and are primed to achieve their potential - Teamwork makes the dream work.

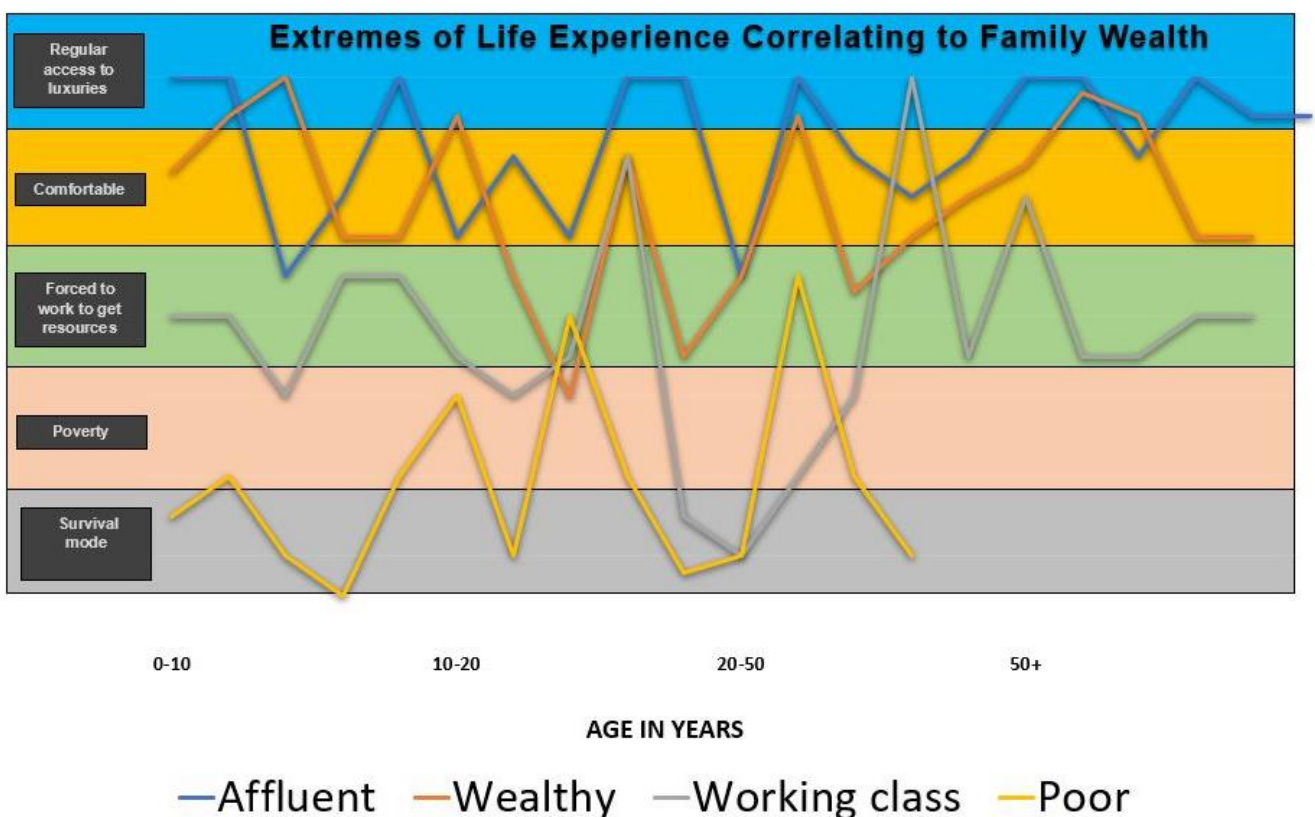

Imagine everyone collaborating to the design the human condition, using and reusing resources required to maximise their effect, accessing the abundance that exists on Earth. Society as a collective must embrace a system that aligns with the nature of everything if it is to achieve its potential.

The Abundance Model – Looping theory

People only need to observe the mega corporations and the mega wealthy individuals to see this is not how current systems operate – they have systems to maintain their personal abundance of resources. They are also surrounded by people working with them and for them to maintain their position of power. These people are all talking the same language, communicating effectively, implementing efficient practices, behaving with the same ultimate purpose in mind. They are organised.

Schools, and other education institutions have become a mining ground for students with specialized skills informed by specialized language and jargon. This student are swiftly employed to protect the fortunes of others. Pierre Bourdieu states a person's linguistic skills predetermines their position in society as delegated by powerful institutions. Students are groomed to fulfil the needs of the industry owners and controllers. Students willingly pursue careers with the promise of riches and quality life experiences. They literally give up their life to make others rich in the hope they will live a 'better' life themselves. These mega entities make profit by underpaying staff, overcharging consumers, claiming ownership of the natural elements and stripping Earth of the vital resources required to sustain life. The driving force that keeps people divided in all areas of life are the man-made systems that govern society and the people that enforce these systems. This exploitation is allowed and encouraged ... whaaat?

This image displays the levels of entitlement that people experience - The rich spend to majority of their time in win-win situations using specialised languages that maintain their status, whereas the poor are usually struggling for a win, scrambling to speak any language that explains what is happening in their lives. Without regular exposure to each other it can never be expected that either will learn the language of the other and develop empathy. They will only ever make assumption and remain divided.

There is great value in governing powers keeping people divided and in conflict doing their best trying to understand what is happening... These people are less likely to unite to challenge the status quo of governing systems or be proactive in enforcing accountability. It is convenient for the current powers that people are buried in study, work and misinformation attempting to seek meaning, make progress and avoid ill health; because that keeps people in a regular state of exhaustion, less likely to be a threat to the mega wealthy who live in a more consistent state of health and wellbeing. Josh Rettig explores how most people do not question their existence in “Are you Stuck In A Loop?”

The world was divided and conquered a long time ago, ownership was claimed and systems were implemented that forced people into modes of survival, and this prevented the majority of people from developing their personal wealth and creativity - until the internet and recording devices were made publicly available. People are recording the corruption and starting to wake up to the exploitation. People are more widely connected and could easily take advantage of these tools if they were to become organized.

Although, the threat of these technologies are most certainly within the strategic plan of the powers that be – any sign of a mass movement for any reason and the authorities would undoubtedly be triggered to prevent any threat to the top of the food chain. Any advance of violence is sure to be met with unimaginable force by those with access to the defense force resources. Although, this new system may be appealing to these people too.

The answer is to take a decentralized approach and commit to an ‘open-loop education’ system (Scott DeRue, 2018), which adapts to individual needs. Simply, people are expected to learn to apply the concept of ‘looping theory’ and apply it to everything in the function of human life (as best as possible), in exchange they will be given a global family, purposeful work, income and unlimited free education (as best the family can offer). This will align human condition with nature, and everyone knows how powerful nature is. Think about how organized a beehive or an ant’s nest is, every bee and ant have its purpose. Humans are conscious, intellectual beings and could be functioning like this to the benefit of civilization, and significantly increasing personal satisfaction and quality of life, rather than exhausted from the hamster wheel; hopeless, depressed and traumatized. Health and wellbeing are faceted with having needs met, variety, new experiences, embracing the environment, and exploring the self and relationships.

The assumption is that there are literally millions of people in the world attempting to bring peace to humanity and break the negative cycles of the past; welfare organisations, charity groups, political parties, humanitarians, philanthropists and many academics. But the truth is – there are major forces preventing the widespread change necessary to heal the world.

Divergent people are vital to human survival because those who challenge the systems, lobby for change and hold the powerful authorities to account are continuing the endeavour to improve and protect the human condition.

Every generation has lived in hope that someone is working/fighting for the best interests of humanity, and that positive change is coming soon. This is because the message of hope (Or hopelessness) is passed down from generation to generation, through stories in families, schools, media and religion. Hope is what people are taught to think. It is also the firm belief of many that peace has not been achieved because the powerful influences of the world do not want it to occur, these groups do not want things to change because that will threaten their way of life. This is evident in the world systems that foster corruption and misinformation, governing systems that are oppressive, mainstream media that lie and the mega wealthy entities that manipulate.

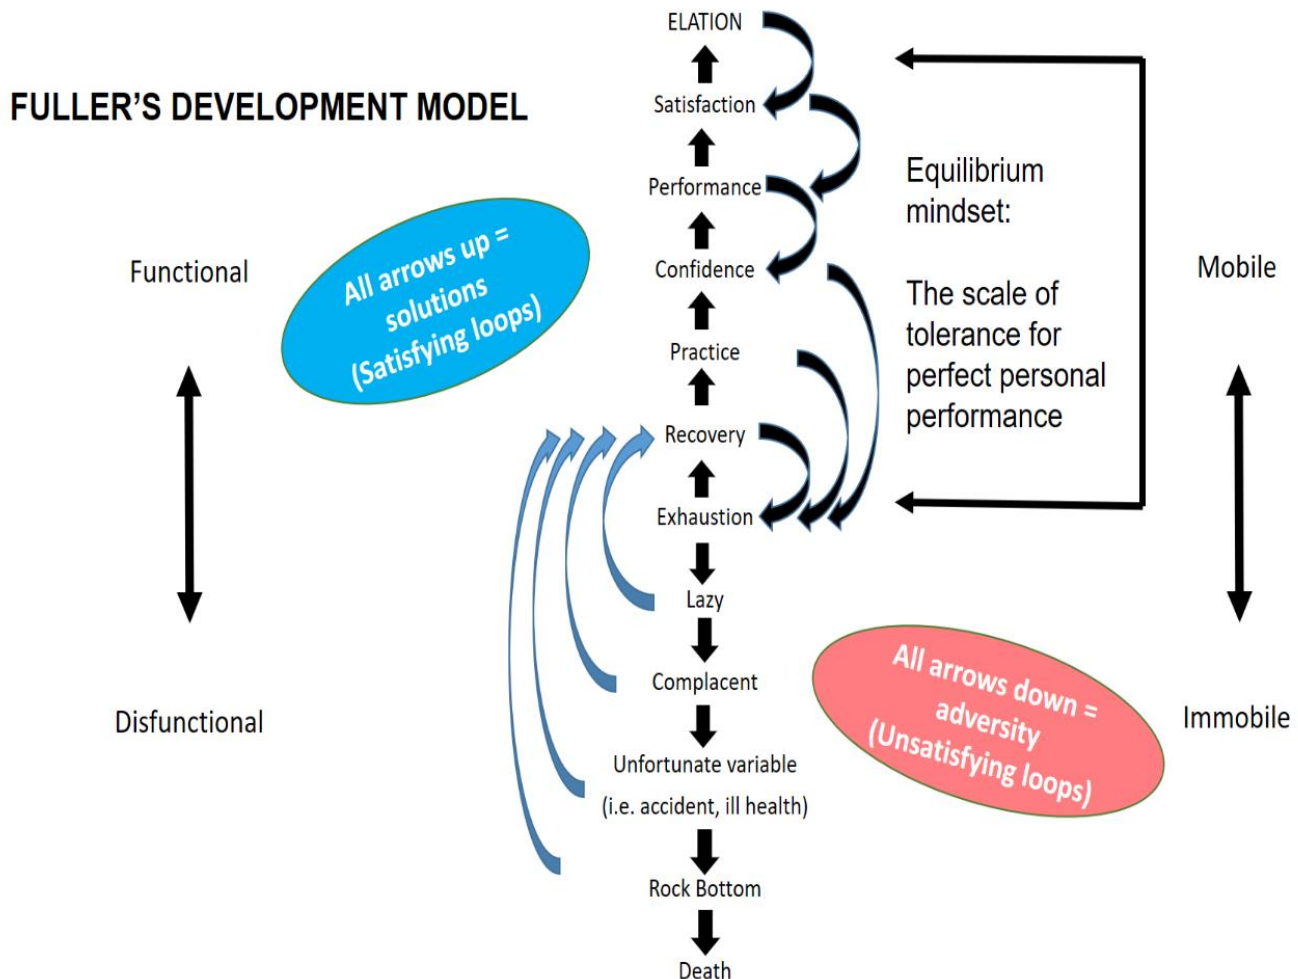

The general population of the world are kept preoccupied and consuming trying to decode the languages of the elite, and learning what is necessary to make enough money to afford a healthy life, even though the work they do is often making them more unhealthy (another loop). The general public are kept within the constraints of survival, conflict, illness, education, work, addiction, media and consumption, getting just enough wins in life to keep them working and believing there is a better life ahead of them. This oppression is easily achieved by the rich and powerful by stock piling necessary resources and creating a shortage among the people, which causes demand, an economy and the illusion of value. i.e. something is only worth what someone is willing to pay. Also, teaching only the necessary skills to understand value, work and consumption is occurring across the world. Trying to change the world using the limited language that people are taught is going to be very difficult, yet here we are.

After decades, if not centuries, of being lied to, manipulated and indoctrinated to abide and consume, this needs to stop. The greedy moguls rely on the habits of previous generations to be passed down and continue the consumption, these might be political views, violence, money mismanagement, unhealthy diet, religious ideologies and educational patterns among other things. System exists that can help everyone break free from this if they want to.

Others who have managed to connect with millions of people and have proven to be proactive with implementing new systems that caused positive change include Gandhi, John Lennon, Bruce Lee, Mother Teresa, Buckminster Fuller, Nelson Mandela, Johan Galtung, Jacque Fresco,, Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi's, Stephen Hawking, and there are so many more names that could be dropped, but the point is – equilibrium, peace, harmony, satisfaction, sustainable practices should be. These people believe that peace on Earth will exist. It is my understanding that all that remains to do is connect the dots, so to speak, and this needs to be done in a way that nothing will prevent success. This is my goal before I die and if I die sooner than I will have many people to take on the legacy. The legacy is not the physical assets that are required but the understanding of looping theory and how it informs the best system available to enhance civilization. I refuse to believe humans are destined to remain in mass conflict and oppression until the fall of civilization.

The looping nature of everything can be seen in the functions of human life and in the processes of circulation – at the core of the human condition is the loop of: consumption – elation – exhaustion (the following diagram elaborates on this).

Harmony with this concept, combined with access to basic resources will facilitate equilibrium. The definition of equilibrium is a discussion the world needs to have because it is the fundamental basis for achieving human potential.

There is a system that has been designed that explains the new system in more detail, although, in short, the general public and humanitarian groups become an organised community and work together based on the understanding of a moral code.

All functions of the community loop back to the community until everyone in the community defines success. This idea is scalable and can be achieved in small or large groups. All returns on investment stays within the community as best as possible – exactly like a sustainable family synchronized across the globe. Everyone can continue to utilise all the resources available but with the purpose of creating stronger connections. As the philosopher Bruce Lee taught, “Under the heaven, under the skies, there is only one family.” People need to behave this way.

When the time comes to act together, we are all connected and can discuss, vote, survey and move in a way that best serves our community instead of the ‘owners’ of the world. Family takes care of family, knowing they abide by the same morals that make for the best world. A system exists to manage any conflict that arises, just like in a healthy family environment. The new community becomes a family with influence in numbers. A family with transparency, honour, inclusivity, equity, fairness and accountability. A family setting the example of what it means to be human and being the change they wish to see in the world. The system applies the best of every human system that can be studied, in order to achieve equilibrium.

The basis for the system is a moral code, a holistic education program that fosters equity, guaranteed income, a conflict resolution model, shared resources, wellbeing becomes the priority, an adaptive restoration and management plan, the promotion of fairness and trusted. The system that has been produced by The Centre for P.E.A.C.E., and their affiliates, over the past 12 years. Consciously committing to such a benevolent, decentralized system is what will bring humanity back from the chaotic destructive and corrupt systems that govern the world today.

There are many groups ready to move for the reconstruction of any community. Imagine if the people of the world had their needs met... working together with purpose, sharing and embracing the best systems and ideologies to achieve a sustainable human potential – then all that will be left to do is declare it!

All religion and politics aside, this concept is what Jesus and many others have attempted to do: Create something that can unite people nonviolence and steeped in a moral code. Whether you like it or not, Jesus achieved this for over a billion people living today and many more before them. The next person to arrive and free the people, feed the people, bring harmony to the world and provide a system that honors all the best of humanity has to offer, will certainly leave their mark in the history books. Society urgently needs something pragmatic, that complements people’s belief systems and provides a literal purpose for life that serves 8+ billion humans.

An individual can strive their entire life to achieve great things but with a family functioning as a supporting team, their chances of true happiness and success are exponentially greater. This is because the resources they access are being shared in circulation with each other – used and reused as best as possible. After all, Mother Teresa taught us that peace and war begin at home. If we truly want peace in the world, let us begin by loving one another in our own families.”

The thorough application of the looping nature of the human function will bring peace to the world in the shape of collaboration, sustainability, proactive restoration, inclusion, unified purpose and the creation of abundance. It offers the scaffold to bring peace to yourself first, then your loved ones, then your community; “from little things big things grow,” “The journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step.” Bring peace to your home and if you do not know how, please ask for help. You are entitled to be safe and you are entitled to have your needs met.

Bucky Fuller explains that all the technology required to bring peace to Earth is in existence and can facilitate everything humans need to achieve their potential. If all the tools exist, we simply need the system and the willingness to engage.

Nelson Mandela said, "Education is the most powerful weapon you can use to change the world."

Johan Galtung, the father of peace and conflict studies, states "By peace we mean the capacity to transform conflicts with empathy, without violence, and creativity – a never ending process."

Jacque Fresco had a plethora of ideas "merely complaining without proposing an alternative offers nothing" (The Venus project is Fresco's alternative) and "When education and resources become available to all without a price tag there will be no limit to human potential."

Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi's "The best moments usually occur if a person's body or mind is stretched to its limits in a voluntary effort to accomplish something difficult and worthwhile."

Stephen Hawking said, "Intelligence is the ability to adapt to change."

Combine these with many other wise ideas and philosophies and it becomes obvious that the research and development has been completed. Unique marketing campaigns are ready, constitutions are done, business structures are complete, designated mobile apps are in the making, contingency plans are set, asset list has started, destination line is drawn - everything that is required to make this a success is ready for your inquiry – you simply need to relinquish some of your old perspectives and embrace the excitement of being a founding member of peace on Earth. Human potential is in sight.

For those people who have the power to choose you can either stay in your loop amused and entertained by the vulgar display of politics and media, and live as you are - Knowing that you are going round in circles may not bother some people, but, people are bothered when it is them caught in a loop of suffering, without choices. Or you can choose to work peacefully, with a world of support, designing your life to achieve your dreams and develop the empathy to heal the world. Your opportunities will grow, and you can always choose to return to your old life at any time. The call to action is for people to think about how good it would be to become empowered with a sense of belonging to the biggest family on Earth – it wont all be easy, but it will define a profound purpose for life. Reach out.

Unless the holy grail exists, we all have limited time sharing this planet, we may as well collaborate to maximize our experiences. Who will choose the red pill?
